*ROOS'NEW PLANS

THE Socceroos and the National Soccer League will be given a greatly enhanced profile as the Australian Soccer Federation's latest planning comes to fruition.

USTRALIAN SOCCER WEEKL

Next month's Indonesian trip for the Piala Kemerdekaar tournament will be quickly followed by away matches against South Korea on Thursday September, 6 and Sunday, September

ASF chairman John Constantine told ASW: "South Korea will cover our expenses for the games, which will give us a great opportunity to compare our present position with one of the Italia '90 World Cup finals teams.

"The Indonesian and South Korean tours fit in well with the start of the new NSL season in October.

"In addition, the commissioners will be working in conjunction with coaches Eddie Thomson and Les Scheinflug to get a constant run of appropriate international matches to ensure the Socceroos' future welfare.

"It could be that we secure a few warm-up games to tune up for the England visit next June."

The commissioners have sanctioned the calling of applications for a marketing manager and a youth development officer, as well as Thomson's replacement as national coaching director.

Mr Constantine said: "Until now we have had no marketer to directly service the Victorian Health Foundation and their associates. They bring in over $1 million per annum to the ASF and NSL.

"Our marketing manager will service them and the other big sponsors we aim to secure."

lage on Sunday.

Croydon City, the pre-season title long-shot which has taken the State League by storm, is the form team of the competition and can avenge its 3-0 drubbing at the hands of Heidelberg back in round 11.

Croydon has won its last seven games on end and is unbeaten since its round 15 match at home to Green Gully back on May 15.

Heidelberg has lost twice in the same period but a run of five successive wins in recent weeks suggests that the Bergers are peaking for Sunday's big clash.

Heidelberg's former Socceroo Garry McDowall, who is set to return from suspension for the do-or-die battle, says his club has been at its most consistent best over the past three weeks.

"And our goals for speak for themselves," McDowall told ASW. "We won't change for Sunday's game — the way we play is to attack and that's what we'll do on Sunday.

"There is no team we fear."

George Slifkas is rated as doubtful as he is still suffering from the groin rash which kept him out last weekend.

Croydon has two injury worries following its 3-1 win over Bulleen at the weekend.

Player-coach Ian Dobson and Goran Runje will face fitness tests after coming off against Bulleen on Sunday.

Dobson believes his side won't wilt under the pressure of Sunday's possible championship decider.

"We were in a similar position last year and under far more pressure then," says Dobson.

Charlie Yankos fights to regain fitness

SOCCEROO Charlie Yankos has to recover his fitness level to play a big part in the coming matches in Indonesia.

The national team is to compete in the fifth Piala Kemerdekaan 1990 Tournament, to be held in Jakarta from August 19/29.

Yankos told ASW: "Being involved in the SBS World Cup telecast for a month meant that I had no time to he active.

"I'm now back at work after a week's break so I have little time available to take it from there.

Yankos has regularly captained the Socceroos, and is looking forward to playing his part once again.

He is the only player in the side without a club at present.

Dealing with the new-19 man squad, he said: "It isn't that much different to our recent teams.

"Tony Krslovic was on the fringe. He is an extremely good player - strong and aggressive - and the tour experience will see him improve.

Callinan, and Apia-Leichhardt's no-nonsense winger, Jason van Blerk, whose selection is the biggest surprise. Van Blerk has trialled extensively in England, and last season joined Apia after playing with Blacktown earlier years at Apia.

Tony Franken is a welcome addition after making a comeback with Sydney Croatia following a knee reconstraction.

The selection is necessarily confined to players resident in Australia.

There is the making of a sound defence and an intelligent midfield, with the strikers given the chance to prove their mettle.

No doubt coach Eddie Thomson, who has been on tour with the Australian youth team in Asia, will later have to do some finetuning.

Opponents in Jakarta could include Indonesia A and B, Malaysia, select and either Japan or South Korea, according to the latest information from the All Indonesia Football Federation.

This is the first national team tour directed towards preparations for the elimination rounds of the 1994 World Cup, to be held in the United States.

Lack of goals has been one of the dis-appointments of this world-wide spectacle. Czechoslovakian The other obvious feature, sticking out a mile, has been the revelation of parity between European, South American, and the so-called third world Soccer nations. No longer do European and South American soccer giants dwarf the rest of the world!

LETTER As one of millions of frustrated soccer fans, who have been disappointed with the results of the recent World

Cup, I would like to offer

some solutions to improve the game as a spectator sport.

No doubt, if professionalism could have been introduced in Australia 10 years ago, we would be there now in the top ten!

What we have seen also clearly, is the inability of otherwise skillful teams to score goals under the present system of the game's rules.

The fear of having goal's scored against, has robbed the sport of its major attraction.

I feel that a drastic situation needs drastic remedies, such as:

1. Drop the off-side rule altogether, the recently adopted slight change can only result in a slight increase in the number of goals.

2. Drop the number 1 position in the team: the goalkeeper, without changing the number of players in the team.

All eleven players should be allowed to defend their goal without use of arms and hands; that way it would be truly Football!

3. Players who resort to so-called professional fouls (tripping opponents away from the ball) should be shown the red card immediately, and not after a second offence!

THE era of "offthe-cuff" international planning has to end, new national coach Eddie Thomson said in Canberra prior to leaving on the Young Socceroos' Asian tour.

"In the past we have suffered from teams scheduled to meet the Socceroos that were coming then pulled out at the last moment, and of club sides that were not worth playing against and consequently flopped at the gate," he said.

"I am working with ASF chairman John Constantine and Secretary Alan Vessey to eliminate this kind of uncertainty once and for all.

"Within 12 months we will have established a continuing program for our national team.

Thomson said the Australian public had proved it would respond to games against quality opposition that had some point.

Remember the 40,000 who turned out for the World Cup qualifier agianst Israel.

The ASF was working towards a series with England in Australia next June and Thomson rejected any suggestion that in the year after the World Cup the tourists would be under strength.

"It will be the first tour the players will make under their new manager, Graham Taylor, and they will Graham be desperate to impress him," he said.

'And you must remember that the crowded international program means that by Ideally, Thomson would like to see a straight path to the World Cup finals for the Oceania Confederation winner, "but when you consider that in Africa around 40 countries will compete for three spots and that Oceania has around four active countries, we have got to accept that our winner is going to be involved in a play-off with someone in South America.

"Personally, I would rather see Australia qualify through Asia.

"It is on our doorstep, and we are constantly being invited to play in tournaments there.

"I would much prefer to see our qualifying matches against the likes of South Korea and China than the South Americans.'

Wolves win second in a row

NOW fielding a side more in keeping with the status of the competition and having made a slow start, Wollongong City showed Avala, missing the injured Miladin Kuc, a clean pair of heels at Melita Stadium.

COMPILED BY PAUL GOODWIN

The 4-1 win to the South Coast side was well deserved and emphasised what could be achieved as the Wolves won their second game in a row.

Jeff Allport, the 20year-old who is maturing rapidly this season, was entrusted with the penalty-taking duties in the 11th minute when an Avala player handled in the area.

His powerful and confidently struck ball into the top corner got things off to the perfect start for the travelling side.

Ten minutes later a David Ratcliffe free kick was headed in by Steven Baggott and from then on there was no looking back.

In the 24th another free kick by player-coach, Ratcliffe, found Baggott, whose shot bounced off the 'keeper to the feet of Stephen Krishna, who hammered in the rebound from about 15 metres.

Washington Gonzalez put a free kick wide of the post in the 27th minute, but Avala missing the effervescent Kuc and had little fire-power apart from these set

Sydney Macedonia keep pace with the leader

BY DAVID COOPER

SYDNEY Macedonia stayed in touch with the leaders by defeating Warringah Freshwater 1-0 at Jensen Park.

Sydney Macedonia now share second place with Canberra Croatia.

With a total of eight shots at goal, the match was less than entertaining for spectators, with the game mainly played in the midfield with very little creativity by either side in attack.

The first half saw a lot of stoppages resulting in neither side having any rhythm in attack.

The best chance of the first half fell for Giannone of Warringah when he was in a oneon-one situation with Macedonia's goalkeeper Tony Avellino, but the later made a good ave to deny Giannone.

The breakthrough came in the 64th minute when a high ball from Macedonia's midfield saw Kotsias for Macedonia contest a header with Warringah's fullback Etherington, which eventually drop-ped nicely for Kotsias who blasted the ball past Mikuletic in the Warringah goal.

This proved to be the only bright point of a very dull second half where both defences

It was a stylish performance by the home side which nevertheless cannot afford to make too many slip-ups in the final seven games as Canberra Croatia, with the bye, now has a game in hand.

Sutherland cannot be written off yet, but are unlikely to have Graham Arnold available for some time and will need to show all their renowned team spirit if they are to regain the winning habit.

Saints remain in the top four

ST GEORGE kept their place in the top four when they drew 1-1 with Canterbury Marrickville Arlington Oval.

The game started off very slowly with the defences well and truly on top. Both sides were constantly making silly mistakes and there were only three chances created in the whole of the first half.

In the second half, however, the game opened up as both teams controlled the ball a little better.

St George were the first to pressure the opposition goalkeeper when Augerinos' swerving free kick forced Pupovac to push the ball against the crossbar cleared by Canterbury defenders.

Eight minutes later, St George won a corner which was cleared as far as Watson who chipped over for Ciantar, who controlled the ball with head then turned before his powerful header gave Pupovac no chance in Canterbury's goal.

This goal sprung Canterbury into action and they mounted a number of attacking raids, but St George goalkeeper John Filan was generally not troubled.

Canterbury got their equaliser when Oustambasidis beat his man on the right before unselfishly passing to Lardis who was unmarked and calmly placed his shot under the arms of Filan.

The rest of the game saw both sides try to get the winner, but the defences stood firm.

Beddoni clinches the two points

BRUNO Beddoni kept up his good scoring form by presenting Rockdale llinden with the two points with the only goal of their 1-0 win at Hurstville Oval on Sunday against Sydney Olympic.

Beddoni struck in the 65th minute when a Greg Lerond free kick from 20 metres out, wide on the left, was met by the enterprising Beddoni who made a quick dash from the far post to head in at the near post only centimetres inside Gary Meier's post.

A bumpy surface did not allow Olympic to persevere with their favoured one-touch football and with the breeze at their backs they were unable to capitalise on the good form of John Koch and Craig Sharpley. Steve Refenes was also a danger on the left flank, but Rockdale did well in the first half to hold this strong strike force and made the, second half theirs.

During the opening period Keith Warren made an important save, gloving to safety a shot from Koch, who turned well when in receipt of a ball from a throw-in and tested the agile Warren in the 20th minute.

In the 25th minute Stuart Porter challenged Nick Plataniotis who was keen to bring the ball out of defence and Porter gained possession, before slipping it to Beddoni, whose shot was pushed away by Meier.

Ten minutes later himself Beddoni brought the ball in from the byline and shot from an awkward angle, but once again was denied by the veteran Olympic custodian who dealt with the rising ball well.

Meier saved again from Beddoni after a Petrovski square ball in the 55th, but in the 60th it looked certain that Beddoni's skill would win a penalty.

Beddoni worked his way into the box and was taken on by both Plataniotis and Georgeopoulos and the Rockdale player ended up on the ground and looked ready to claim the spot kick.

Referee Kevin Tooke indicated a dive and it was left to Beddoni to finally find the net in the 65th.

Koch twice went close for Olympic, whose play was patchy, by shooting wide once and having a second long-range drive blocked, as Rockdale maintained a clean sheet.

Polonia blows it

BY DAVID COOPER

POLONIA put paid to just about any chances they may have had of reaching the semi-finals when they could only manage a 1-1 draw with Blacktown City at Chopin Park.

In a very spiteful en-counter, both sides failed to put away good chances that came their way, which meant neither team could gain the advantage.

Polonia opened up the scoring in the 12th minute when Geoff Gunning of Blacktown was alleged to have used an elbow in the area, resulting in a penalty to Polonia the 27th minute raid.

Shore wins dour battle

A dour relegation struggle at Cromer Park ended with North Shore United defeating Inter Monaro by the same score as the first round, 2-1.

North Shore may have expected to continue their strong show-ing against Sutherland with a display of their class, but, instead, they looked vulnerable in defence and attacks often went wrong when players could not convert a steady supply of useful crosses.

Inter Monaro missed Baz Giampaolo and had newcomer Arsenije Popovich carrying a knee injury into the game.

Popovich was the player who intercepted a Craig McColl back pass and took the ball round the keeper Michael Blanco to give Monaro the lead in the fifth minute.

Mark Nile had twice already caused some havoc in the Queanbeyan side's defence by getting easily past his defender and cutting the ball back for Aaron Ferguson and Glenn Jeffery whose separate shots were both adequately dealt with by Steve Hoszowski.

Janke and Njegosh Popovich figured in a second counter-attacking move which could have spelt disaster for the home side.

They raced away to confront Blanco, with only the goalie's legs keeping them at bay in North Shore defender Pat Crookes put his side back in business when he headed in from a difficult angle at the far post, a cross superbly put over by Jeffery from the right byline.

It was a piece of precision placement which rarely comes off, but the big defender took his chance confidently.

In the 62nd minute a free kick, taken from the goal area by Craig Alchin, reached sweeper Craig Bass who had pushed forward.

Bass was able to beat off a defender and send Glenn Jeffery away, with the previously out of touch striker tucking the ball inside the right hand post past the advancing Hoszowski.

A Lee Sutherland cross in the 66th minute was almost turned into his own goal by Alchin, but the Monaro defender redeemed himself by cutting out a Chris Bradley chip over the keeper which could have made it 3-1.

The last 15 minutes saw North Shore on the back foot as Monaro threw everyone forward in search of the equaliser.

Frank Daniele's 88th minute shot could have achieved that, but after a fumble by the 'keeper, Crookes made a vital clearance to keep his side's lead.

Kupco Djordjeski was just wide with another effort, as Monaro made their opponents work hard to earn the vital two

FOR the first time this season Gladesville-Hornsby coach Les De Celis had all his first grade players at his disposal, after a year plagued by injuries to members of his squad.

The 'Mitre 10 Bears' emphasised their fullstrength capabilities by trouncing the useful Waverley outfit 5-0 at Waverley Oval on share of possession.

At half-time the scoresheet was still blank, but Gladesville had gone close twice and had put the writing on the wall.

Sheffield Shield cricketer Neil Maxwell headed over the bar and centre back Angelo Raguz's shot also went over the top.

Raguz made amends in the 55th when he headed in at the near post from a corner and from that point there was no stopping the visi-

De Celis was reappointed, during the week, as coach for next year and the players showed him their support with their most emphatic performance to date.

Maxwell, who is not always available, grabbed his first for the club, and leading scorer Graeme Williamson made it 3-0.

Jeff Kelly also found the net for the first time and substitute Bernie Voloder wrapped things up with a thunderbolt in the 85th to make it a day Gladesville won't forget in a hurry.

Dulwich Hill and Manly turned up at Arlington Oval on Saturday and staged a hard fought 1-1 draw with Madeira coach Agenor Muniz far from satisfied with the performance of some of his 'star' players.

Although a goal up when a soft shot in the first minute was deflected into the net off a Manly defender's legs, the home side lacked a sense of purpose and allowed Manly to get back in the game.

A penalty taken by Bobby Geoghegan hit the post, but prime poacher Graham Walton was on hand to tuck it away and another point went down the drain for the title hope-

Muniz is anticipating up to seven changes for this weekend's crucial game with Mount Druitt at Popondetta Park.

Now unbeaten in 10 matches, Mount Druitt travelled to Pluim Park and came up with a 1-0 win over Central Coast on Sunday.

Both sides worked hard and the spoils could easily have been shared.

LEMEZINA'S SHOCK WALK-OUT

BY GRAHAM COOKE

CANBERRA Croatia's leading scorer, Tony Lemezina, has walked out on the soccer club - apparently to try and seek his fortune Europe.

The NSW State League leader was rocked by the news with officials saying they had had no inkling of the star. striker's intentions.

"The first thing I knew about it was when I turned up for training on Tuesday night and was told by team manager Mirko Skrnjug he had had a message from a member of Tony's family that he had gone," coach Tom Sermanni said.

"It was a complete surprise for everyone. I was told Tony had left the club around 10pm on Sunday night and that his last words were "see you at training on Tuesday.

"I can tell you I am bitterly disappointed in him. Only earlier in the week I was on television praising his attitude and saying ne has found a new maturity.

"At the same time he was leaving us in the lurch."

The previous Sunday Lemezina was the toast of Deakin Oval as he banged in five goals in the 8-1 rout of Marconi - a club individual scoring record.

"When I spoke to him after the game he forecast he would bring his total to 15 before the end of the season.

Sermanni said Lemezina had mentioned the possibility of trying out in Yugoslavia, where he has relatives, several months ago "but it was a one-off conversation and I heard no more about it."

No-one at Croatia has any details of the player's exact destination, although there is speculation on Hajduk Split, the Croatian-based club which toured Australia recently.

New NSW Division 2 officials

At the July meeting of the NSW Second Division sub-committee, member clubs elected a new chairman and secretary, following the resignation in June of former chairman Don Morrison, who cited personal reasons for his decision.

The new chairman is David Morrison and the new secretary is Joe Fisher.

David Morrison formerly held the position of secretary, while Joe Fisher, a noted union official, is a prominent member of the rapidly emerging Mount Druitt Town Club. - PAUL GOODWIN manager won't be short of tasks, as the ASF is now directly responsible for four national teams the A team as well as the Olympic, Youth and under 17 sides.

The ASF has an important meeting on Saturday morning to finalise the executive's approach to the Bradley Report.

Proposals to modernise the game have been well received Australia-

If the constructive approach continues as expected, the ASF will have the constitutional changes ready for approval at an extraordinary general meeting to be held on September 30.

Mr Constantine added: "The plan is to be extend National League representation across major Australia cities.

"Clubs must know exactly where they stand before the 1990/91 NSL season begins."

Box Hill still without a win after 27 rounds

BY GREG BLAKE AND DAVID BULLOCK

BOX Hill's horrendous run of 27 State League games without a win continued on Sunday when it went down 2-0 away lacklustre to Fawkner.

Despite a courageous performance from the Hillmen to keep Fawkner scoreless until halftime, the league's basement side was swept aside by a two-goal second half strike by Danny Stevancevic.

Box Hill's defence and midfield held its own against the top four side, particularly before the break, but the lack of a class forward told on the struggling Hillmen.

Fawkner, which had made hard work of the first 45 minutes, finally went ahead in the 61st minute when Stevancevic reached a Roy Walsh cross and managed to spear a first-time shot through the keeper's hands, with the ball eventually rolling lazily over the line:

Stevancevic struck again 15 minutes later after being set up by the livewire Sammy Emma-

"They played well -I'm really surprised they (Box Hill) are so low on the ladder," was the comment from the Fawkner camp after the leader League Croydon City tuned up for its blockbuster against Heidelberg next weekend by dismissing Bulleen's late-season top four charge with a 3-1 win.

Croydon isn't without its worries despite Sunday's emphatic win against a well-performed opponent.

Player-coach Ian Dobson and Goran Runje left the field after suffering injuries against Bulleen and will only be available for the Heidelberg clash if they pass late week fitness

David Klepac got Croydon away to a flying start on Sunday with a goal after just nine minutes play but Bulleen struck back for a deserved equaliser three minutes from halftime when John McKinlay saved from Fabio Incantalupo, but Darren Tuck was on hand to ram home the rebound.

"Bulleen were the better team to half-time," Croydon boss Dobson conceded after the game.

They are a good team but once we scored our second goal I think we got on top."

Croydon took a 65th minute lead when Klepac scored his second goal of the game and Andy Humble made it 3-1 some 14 minutes from time after a goalmouth clash which left Bulleen keeper Mauro Raponi on the turf and unable to see out the 90 minutes.

Nick van Egmond started the move from defence before sending Klepac away to put the ball into the path of Humble and set up a 50-50 situation between Humble and Raponi.

After a heavy clash Humble strode around the prone keeper to clip the ball into the net.

Raponi was carried from the field and replaced between the sticks by Corado Nobile.

Dobson wasn't getting carried away by his club's win but said Croydon would be going to Heidelberg next week 'to win.

"We have no fears we are now playing to our potential."

B. JUVENTUS 2 NORTHCOTE CITY 1

Brunswick Juventus, still very much an out-sider in the championship race, cruised to an easy 2-1 win over a disappointing Northcote City on Sunday.

Despite the ease of the win, Juventus coach Terry Hennessey conceded that winning the title from the club's present position would be difficult.

Juventus, which must rely on Croydon and Heidelberg to drop points in the run home, is, according to Hennessey, trying to play catch-up. "That's the problem," said Hennessey.

"We've been behind the eight-ball from day one and we just cannot afford to lose another uventus had few problems with a Northcote side which is plagued by problems both on and off the field.

Northcote put little pressure on the top four side and committed Juventus, which had wasted its first half opportunities, finally took a 53rd minute lead when Reno Minichiello scored with a brilliantly taken freekick

MELBOURNE JUST 0 ST ALBANS 1

In a dreary outing with little at stake, St Albans got up by the only goal of the game against Melbourne JUST at a windswept and near-deserted Schintler Reserve on Sunday.

Jules Eres grabbed St Albans' winner just 25 minutes into the forgettable encounter as the visiting side took full advantage of the strong

JUST did likewise after the break but couldn't break back despite twice hitting the woodwork.

The closest JUST came was an 85th minute scissor kick by Retre which was palmed down by Vunderl and Kitanovski put the rebound against an upright.

CAULFIELD O HEIDELBERG 3

"We were just strong and too experienced' — that was the final analysis from Heidelberg coach Len McKendry after his side had demolished Caulfield in a very one-sided 'Greek' derby.

Heidelberg went into the match without Paul Lewis, the league's leading scorer, and also missing was the experienced trio of George Slifkas, Nick Ouslakis and Garry McDowell, but whatever advantage Caulfield would have hoped to gain was quickly ruled out after only nine minutes.

Angie Goutzoulis having made an enterprising run, cut back a cross from the left, Phil Stubbins mishit his header at goal, but as the ball spilled free, Willie Herd swooped on it to put away the chance with his left foot.

One minute from half-time, the Bergers extended their lead when referee Chris Bambridge awarded a "soft" penalty against Caulfield keeper, Dean Anastadiadis, after he had brought down Stuart Stevenson inside the area.

Penalty specialist Stuart Cannell made no mistake with the spotkick as he blasted the ball into the roof of the net to register his ninth goal of the season.

Heidelberg continued to dominate the second half with attacking and attractive soccer, only to be let down by poor finishing and some brilliant keeping by Anastadiadis.

The scoreline was completed in the 83rd minute when a pass from substitute Nick Papadopoulos was met by Goutzoulis, who turned cleverly on the ball to rifle home his shot from inside the

FRANKSTON 1 ALTONA GATE 1

In a entertaining encounter, 17th placed Frankston Pines took the game right up to their more fancied opponents and can consider themselves somewhat unlucky to not have grabbed the two

After a even first half, Altona Gate finally broke the deadlock in the 70th minute when Vlado Tortevski thundered his free kick through the Frankston Pines defensive wall, giving goalkeeper Lee Davies no chance.

Thirteen minutes later, Frankston equalised when Craig Miller scored from the penalty spot as a result of a crude tackle inside the penalty area.

With only seconds remaining, Pines captain-coach Jimmy Ross found himself in the clear and with only the keeper to beat, mishit his shot wide of goal from five metres

MORWELL 3 MOOROOLBARK O

Morwell overcame a brilliant display of goalkeeping from Mooroolbark's Les Long, to register a conclusive victory.

Long's sterling performance kept his with the La Trobe Valley outfit until Anthony Cassar broke the deadlock five minutes into the second half.

Cassar, who has been in soccer wilderness for the past three years, finished off some good lead-up work from Gordon Scott to drive home his shot past Long.

Gordon Scott then made it 2-0 when he got on the end off a through ball to cleverly and calmly round Long and plant the ball in the back of the net.

Morwell's third goal resulted from a goalmouth scramble, in a flury of activity. Effie Cassar pounced on the loose ball to place his shot into the back of the Morwell's bubbly coach, Bobby McLachlan, was quite pleased with his side's performance and went on to say: "We had so many chances today, I thought we looked very comfortable all afternoon. Long was brilliant in goal for Mooroolbark, but overall I was happy with performance."

RINGWOOD O THOMASTOWN 1

In a fairly lacklustre affair, Thomastown returned to the winners' list against lowly Ringwood City in very overcast conditions.

The solitary goal came in the 65th minute when Russell Athersych made no mistake with his header from close range after several earlier attempts had been thwarted.

After last week's drubbing against Heidelberg, Thomasagainst town coach Kenny Murphy was philisophical about the result.

"I'm happy to get the points. I think we had our chances to win by a lot more but it wasn't to be," he said.

"I'm also happy with the team's performance, considering we were missing six regular players, but full credit to Ringwood perservering. They did not play as their league position indicates."

GREEN GULLY 3 ALBION 1

Hot and cold Green Gully turned on the heat in an impressive performance against Albion Turk Gucu in blustery conditions on the spacious Gully

So many times this season, Green Gully has promised so much, only to come down with a massive thud when you least expect, but after the week's news of possible amalgamationn with NSL strugglers Sunshine George Cross the team went about its business in no uncertain

With only 14 minutes gone, Gully took the lead through Kenny Smart who fired home a crisp low shot from a Kevin Harrison header.

Before the crowd had a chance to take in the first goal, Gully struck again, this time Harri-son the supplier turned into Harrison the scorer, as he nodded home a crisp pass from Joe Spiteri to bring up his 12th goal of the season. Gully's third goal came midway through the second half when Harrison played a neat cross to Smart who fired the ball home with a well-struck shot.

Albion made their mark on the scoresheet when Patsaman gave Charlie Sant little chance in the Gully goal with a well-taken shot that sailed into the back of the net.

MacLeod and Rooney work towards Springvale success

THEY'RE like chalk and cheese.

He calls him "Fairy" and the retort is 'Thug".

They are Gus Mac-Leod and Jimmy Rooney and together they are plotting the resurrection of Victorian first division club Springvale City.

The thug is, of course, MacLeod, the former block-busting centre-forward of Green Gully's golden Rooney, the former Apia, Marconi and Heidelberg NSL champion and 100 game Socceroo, is, according to big Gus, the fairy.

But as senior coach (MacLeod) and junior coach (Rooney) the pair are working in tandem to pull Springvale out of the hurlyburly of the first division and back into its rightful place amongst the State League elite.

"To tell you the truth, we have enormous respect for each other," says MacLeod of Rooney.

'And that is one of the reasons we work so well together."

Rooney and Mac-Leod, of course, are only small cogs in the Springvale wheel.

Springvale, one of the truly community based (ie non ethnic based) clubs in Victoria, probably deserves as much respect as any of our southern based NSL clubs.

Not only did it take eventual relegation on the chin at a time when the State 'Super League' fiasco compelled five other clubs in the same predicament to take the VSF to court over the issue.

At the same time it showed its stability at all levels by reappointing MacLeod as coach making him one of the longest serving in the state with five years at the helm and got on with the business of actually winning its way back into State League competition.

As a club it is truly acting as a role model to all others with visions of thriving during the 1990s.

Despite stru

A repeat of its 1984 first division title this year would be just reward for a club which is setting all the right examples. Springvale can boast of:

• having a thriving social club which includes live television beamed into the club of the match going on out on the park (for the women, says Gus).

· And of turning a $40,000 debt into profit-making venture.

It's one heck of an impressive record and one of which MacLeod and the club are rightfully proud.

But not enough, it seems, to impress the VSF which, despite having laid down strict regulations about the criteria necessary for clubs to be considered for promotion to the top leagues.

Springvale took re-legation with dignity but even MacLeod says it will be hard to cop another blow this year should the top league be reorganised and Springvale miss

"It's been hard work and two years of struggle for the club and it would certainly be a blow to find out that we couldn't get promoted," MacLeod told ASW.

"Do we have to suffer again and take it on the chin for the sake of the game?

'I just hope we get the right thing done by us by the VSF.

"He is terrific with the kids in his job as overall co-ordinator and I've no doubt that we'll see the fruits of his work in years to

"With the visa situation drying up, juniors will become even more important over the next few years and at Springvale there will be no problems. "As I said, the club is doing everything right to ensure its longterm success."

Heys is Mooroolbark's joker | Paul Lewis is on target

THERE is more than a touch of irony about wee Graham Heys' reappearance at State League level with Mooroolbark this season than meets the eye.

Mooroolbark will always be remembered as the Melbourne club which had the courage to show the way to other Victorian clubs by joining the NSL back in 1977

Its first and only season proved disastrous and eventual relegation paved the way for the once proud Newcastle KB United to join the national competition.

Newcastle's first visa vacancy of 1979 was filled by none other than the shaggy redheaded bundle of playful genius, Graham Heys

And Heys went on to star for nearly a decade at NSL level with four different clubs.

Now out of the limelight since his last NSL spell with Melbourne Croatia ended in 1988, Heys has returned to lead from the front with Graham French's 'Dad Army' at Esther

The flame-coloured mane is no longer, but the sense of humour remains.

'They take us onto the field in wheel-chairs," he laughs.

"And although there's no truth in the rumour that we have life support systems on standby; there are a few iron lungs on hand for specific players.

Goodness knows I'm certainly looking for an oxygen mask every now and then Graham Heys cames up with a ready smile. He is playing out his career with Mooroolbark.

Heys' only regret is not having made the 250 game NSL milestone. He finished on 246 and admits that in the end he just wasn't prepared for the grind of travel or four nights training each week.

Maradona's in the news

DIEGO Maradona faces possible criminal charges in one Italian city while another plans to honor him.

A prosecutor has seized a television station's videotape of a scuffle that pitted Maradona and some of his relatives against police.

Prosecutor Lucia Dotti says the footage could produce useful details for an investigation into the incident outside the Argentine World Cup training site at Trigoria near Rome.

Meanwhile, the city of Naples, where Maradona plays for First Division club Napoli and the only World Cup venue where he was not jeered, plans to offer the striker honorary citizenship to make up for the hostility he faced in other Italian

TAFFAREL HAS GONE

BRAZIL's World Cup goalkeeper Claudio Taffarel will play for Italian First Division side Parma next season.

Taffarel, the first foreign keeper to sign for an Italian club, is joining Parma from Brazil's Internacional of Porto Alegre for $2 million.

Parma squeezed into the First Division for the first time after finishing fourth in division two last season.

Four teams were promoted.

Taffarel is Parma's first foreign signing. First Division clubs in Italy are allowed three foreign players.

In a country which has produced scores of brilliant players but few talented goalkeepers, Taffarel impressed in Brazil's World Cup team before it was liminated by Argentina in the second round.

Club sources said Taffarel, a former volleyball player, was also being sought by Real Madrid but chose Parma partly on the recommendation of his friend Renan dal Zotto, a volleyball professional with Parma's Maxicono, the Italian champion.

FIFA "happy" with refs

Diego Maradona pleads with Swedish referee Erik Frederiksson, the whistler who overlooked his hand ball against the Soviet Union and was promptly dropped by FIFA.

A record 16 players were sent off in the 1990 World Cup, but FIFA president Joao Havelange claimed the figures demonstrated it was one of the cleanest tournaments in the event's 60 years.

We are very satisfied with the discipline in matches due to strict application of our rules," he said.

Before the tournament began, FIFA instructed referees to clamp down on tackles from behind and the 'professional foul" defenders bringing down forwards when they are on a clear run for goal.

Diego Maradona's claim that the referees' yellow card had become a sword of Damocles hanging over players was rejected by Havelange.

Argentina had four players suspended for the final after being cautioned twice in the tournament, and Havelange dismissed the notion that the most important game of football for the next four years was not truly representative.

"The rules are there to protect players. We are not now going to start protecting offenders," he said.

"Players who hurt opponents or infringe on the spirit of the game, who feel no responsibility for their team or the game, cannot expect leniency."

He said they were pleased with the high standard of refereeing, although Sweden's Erik Frederiksson, one of the game's most experienced officials. did not handle another match after missing

BRITISH clubs need to take off their blinkers and go scouting for players in Africa, former England hero Bobby Charlton said,

'Cameroun has shown us all there is a vast, untapped reservoir of players," said the former Manchester United forward who won the 1966 World Cup with England.

I think in the past we might have worried if they would fit in, but there are quite a few good African players with European clubs so perhaps we had better start looking ourselves," said Charlton, now a director of Manchester United.

THE Australian Institute of Sport saw a unique series of Level two and three coaching courses conducted late last month.

They catered for past and present NSL players and proved to be a great success.

The intensive week long program involved many hours of coaching practice, lectures, seminars and exams, with the average day lasting between nine to twelve hours.

Most of the participants found it mentally physically and draining.

Ex-Socceroo, John Kosmina, expressing most views, said: " didn't think we'd be working anywhere near this hard.

I've learnt alot and enjoyed it immensely.

Ten of Australia's top coaches attended the courses, including national coach, Eddie Thomson, former national coaching director Eric Worthington and directors of coaching from six states.

There can be no doubt that the standard of the staff coaches helped to make the whole concept a success.

Melbourne Croatia star Alan Davidson said: "What's impressed me is the knowledge of the coaches, and how they break different aspects of the game down.

Davidson who was doing the course on crutches following his recent leg operation saw communicating as a coach his main learning objective.

"As a player you know what you see and what's wrong.

"But the difficulty covers in getting your message across verbally as a coach.

"The secret is communicating as simply and effectively as possible, and that's what I'm here to learn.'

Trebilcock's appointment

FORMER FA Cup final medal winner Mike Trebilcock has been appointed the NSW Amateur Federation's regional coach for the Northern Branch, Metropolitan Region.

Trebilcock succeeds Les Bee, who has taken over the Director of Coaching job in Tasmania.

This will give juniors in the north a great opportunity to learn from a skilled practitioner.

Trebilcock's background includes playing for Everton Football Club in the English First Division.

In fact, he scored two goals in the 1966 FA Cup final win against Sheffield Wednesday, bringing the team from the tne prestigious trophy 3-2.

Mike continued to play in the First and Second Division for a few more years before leaving for Australia to play for the Western Suburbs Soccer Club in Sydney.

1974 was a great season for Mike when he won the coveted NSW Rothmans Best and Fairest Player of the Year for his first season in Australia.

The family moved to Newcastle in 1976, where Mike coached Cardiff Soccer Club and in fact took all three grades to the finals for the first time in the club's history.

Mike was also appointed coach of the Northern NSW Federation team, holding that position for four years.

The Northern NSW Federation formed the Northern State League and Mike made the move to coach the strong Stewarts and Lloyds team, winning the grand final in its inau-

After a short break from coaching, Mike was then approached by the progressive Newcastle Croatia Club and during that time took them from the Fifth Division to the Second.

Mike will be responsible for the coaching needs of the area, which will include provision of Level 0 and 1 courses, setting up Level 2 Courses, looking after a country representative team, attending country reps camps and state titles, and generally improving coaching and playing standards throughout the entire area.

Comparisons can be odious Chit Chat

BY MIKE JOHNSON

ARE today's best soccer players better than the top soccer players of vestervear?

This question was asked of me the other night in aftermath of the World Cup.

My answer was that today's best players were better than those of yesteryear.

I believe generally all sports people today are more accomplished than sports people of days gone by.

Sports people today are like all people to-day, generally bigger, stronger, faster, more enlightened and with more self-esteem.

The elite players also receive more expert, intensive skill development to counter the lack of constant play in their very young years as in days of old.

It is true that few soccer players in Europe or Great Britain today play as much soccer in their young years as did my generation in the late 40s and early 50s.

We never played anything else but soccer before school, at school, in the evening, seven days a week.

We were always playing four-a-side, 10-aside or 19-a-side games in the streets or school yard with a small ball.

Today, most soccer in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales and most of Europe is structured and organised by adults. However, in Cameroun, Egypt, Costa Rica, Colombia and numerous other underdeveloped countries, they obviously still play continually in the streets and on any patch of ground available to them.

"Third World"

The skill on the ball of players from these "Third World" countries was noticeably better than that of the rest of the players in the World Cup.

Even the top Brazilians, now mostly professionals in Europe, have lost some of their deft touches and improvisation, compared to the Africans in particular.

So in that regard, the Brazilians of some time ago were better than today's Brazilians. However, that is to do with coaching. The modern Brazilian professional is caught up in the caution and percentage play of Europe. never had coaches in my years as a professional player we just played.

This was good and bad, but the good thing about it was we never were hamstrung and cautious as are many of today's professional

We were always able to push forward.

I remember a great FA Cup tie between my club Fulham and Newcastle United which ended in a score of 7-6.

manager told us we had been playing well.

Modern coaching and defensive organisation allows teams with inferior players to beat teams with superior players.

Superior

Such defensive organisational ability allowed the Australian team under Frank Arok to beat superior teams such as Argentina and Yugoslavia.

This highlights a problem for the modern soccer player, just as the modern rugby union and league player.

He has to spend much of his time and energy stopping others as well as being able to play himself.

Years ago bowlers tried to bowl legendary Australian cricketer batsman Don Bradman

But the soccer players are better, nevertheless.

They cover far more ground in their dual roles of defender and attacker.

Today all 10 outfield players in soccer defend when their team lose the ball, just as in theory the 10 are supposed to attack when in posses sion of the ball.

That is "total" foot-

However, the 10 do not all attack at once or there would be 21 players in the opposition defensive third of the field, with the attackers susceptible to fast counter-attacks.

Back players attack selectively and are often covered by their own front players.

The problem is that often the back players are restricted from going forward by the

We in Australia, facing as we do immense opposition from numerous sports, must allow our soccer players as much uninterrupted time as possible to provide excellent attacking play, along with outstanding, clean defence.

Stewart's semi-final hopes for Rochedale

A series of major injuries to his squad are set to cruel Rochedale player-coach John Stewart's return season to Queensland soccer.

The former Lions, Preston and Heidelberg National League star took over the coaching reins at Underwood Park this season after Alan Jones was sacked following an indifferent start.

Hopes were high that Stewart would bring success to the young Rochedale side, but fate has worked against him at the critical stage of the season.

In recent weeks Stewart has lost three regular first teamers with serious injuries which are expected to sideline the players for the remainder of the season.

Striker Tom McGregor, Stewart's former Lions team-mate, has been the most unlucky.

He injured his wrist three weeks ago, then agreed to play when injuries depleted the Rochedale ranks.

Within minutes of the kick-off, McGregor fell awkwardly. In trying to protect his wrist, he tumbled onto his shoulder.

The joint was dislocated and required an operation to reset.

Experienced defender Noel Greenhalgh also has been sidelined with a bone break as has young fullback Ian Simpson.

Greenhalgh, the former Brisbane City captain, has had a hand injury while Simpson needed his broken leg pinned.

Stewart admitted the injuries were a setback to his team's semi-final hopes.

"With several of our colts on representative duty, we've been struggling to get full teams in all grades at times," he said.

"But we are still a chance of making the five, unfortunately we have to rely on others for a few upset results." Although Stewart entered coaching earlier than he had planned on his return to Queensland after a three-year absence, he is happy with the season so far.

Stewart anchored the Rovers midfield and has led by example on most occasions with his tireless workrate.

"It took me a while all-round these days."

Although Stewart has an option on a playing contract for next season with his Rochedale, coaching commitment is presently only to the end of the year.

But he is keen to have have a full season as boss next year.

"There's is a lot of potential at the club to adjust to a new league and then get used to a player-coach role, but I'm happy with my form," he

Stewart trod on a few toes early in instilling a NSL-type approach to training, but believes his tough rules have proved the right direction for the

"It took a while to get my ideas across," he said.

"We previously had a few guys thinking they didn't have to turn up at training all the time, but that soon stopped.

There were five or six players with a good attitude in the side, the others needed to improve.

"I'm happy in that we are getting better things straight, I'd like to go on with it," he said.

While Stewart was among Queensland's better NSL products, and captained the state, he believes it is unlikely he will be part of the Maroons' mooted return to the NSL.

The 31-year-old believes others deserve a chance when the proposed Brisbane United enters the summer league, probably in

"I would hope that there would be players coming through that would ensure I wasn't needed," Stewart said.

"Obviously if I could help in a small way I would, but I'm happy doing what I am doing now.

Rockhampton overcomes Gladstone

FROM BARRY SUCH

ROCKHAMPTON continued to dominante near neighbours Gladstone with an emphatic 3-0 win over them in a senior representative clash in Gladstone last Wednesday night to retain the Morning Bulletin Cup.

Rockhampton coach, Beran Bingley, said after the game that he was delighted with the way the team had played.

"We had five regulars out and despite only having two runs together still knitted together perfectly.

'There is tremendous spirit in this team and its a pity there are not more chances for country soccer players to show what we can do.'

Players missing for this game were Guy Rigby who has transferred to by Brisbane City in a bid to make the NSL as well as Jason Wyer.

Graham Wilson, David Fox and Lindsay Dean were all injured.

Brad Smith hadn't trained for a month due to injury and an interstate trip but made the trip as a reserve.

Frenchville defender Barry Cunningham was a late replacement and Dingley made a tactical switch pushing him into a stiking role with Chris Norton.

The height of these two players was some-thing the Gladestone defenders were unable to cope with and went a long way towards the Rockhampton win.

Rockhampton started the game in a very positive manner winning a lot of possession in mid-field.

The home team trio and no answer to the strength of Gavin Jenkins, the deft touches of Grant Beevers and the strong running of Darren Jeffries who gave them little opportunity.

Beevers is the dead ball specialist for Nerimbera and it was his probing corner kicks that created Rockhampton best After 20 minutes one of them taken to the near post saw Tony Close get a touch to Jenkins for an easy tap in to make it 1-0.

The Rockhampton defence was never seriously in trouble and Gladstone only had two chances of equalising in the first Full back John Jardine had a volley that went wide and when Steve Lines was dispossessed by former Rockhampton player Andrew Kiersnowski the shot was easily taken by goalkeeper Ashley Myatt.

Myatt was making his debut for Rockhampton replacing the injured David Fox.

He did his work well particularly when he went high to catch a free kick that left him gasping for air when when he hit the ground.

Gladstone's inability to get forward gave Rockhampton full back Paul Steyger opportunities to venture upfield and five minutes before the break he bruised the goalkeepers hands with a 25 metre drive.

Shortly before halftime Rockhampton made it 2-0 when Chris Norton also had an easy tap in.

Again it was a Beevers free kick that did the damage, but this time Gladstone goalkeeper Bert Fuller was unable to hold the ball to give Norton his chance.

Norton has been in good goal scoring form for Nerimber but has to sit on the bench for the representative team.

The absence of Wyer and Dean gave him his chance and he took it with both hands.

The home side's best period was the first ten minutes of the second half when they split the Rockhampton defence on three occasions.

Brad Smith came on for the last 20 minutes and made inroads into the Gladstone defence before completing the scoring for Rockhampton from the penalty spot after he had been fouled.

The Rockhampton Youth side kept its unbeaten five year record intact with a 1-0 win over Gladstone in the curtainriser.

Close call

The next fortnight could decide the contentious relegation issue in Queensland's XXXX League. While five rounds still remain, with two teams being relegated this sea-son for the first time the issue could be decided earlier than the last fixture.

At worst, the state of at least one team should be known after critical matches over the next two weekends.

The teams in the relegation spotlight are season-long stragglers Olympic Utd, Mount Gravatt, Grange Thistle and Coalstars.

After Lions, Coalstars host Grange Thistle. The coalminers can give themselves a relegation buffer and send Thistle into deeper trouble with a win.

A loss would put Grange as favourite to miss the drop and leave Coalstars having to beat sides placed above it in the final rounds to survive.

Thistle, who have produced several upset results in recent months after a horror start to the season can play their way out of trouble over the next three weeks.

It is possible Thistle could collect seven oints in the next month which could put them safely mid-table which would be their highest finishing position in years.

It is ironic that for Mount Gravatt to miss the other relegation place, they have to beat their former State League trophy rivals Thistle when they clash at Canham Park on August 10.

The match is Mount Gravatt's best remaining chance of three AUSTRALIAN SOCCER WEEKLY — JULY 25, 1990

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN SCENE

BY ALLAN CRISP

THE Foundation SA State League is set for its most dramatic and exciting finale.

Since this is only the second season under the new banner, since Foundation SA succeeded Rothmans, there can be no disputing the statement.

Adelaide Hellas took out the 1989 First Division championship by a whopping 11 points, but with just two rounds left to complete the 1990 title race, Hellas and Croatia were locked on 31 points apiece, separated only by goaldifference.

Saturday's crucial final round 22 sees Hellas pitted against Birkalla at Camden Reserve, while Croatia is away to already relegated Cumberland United.

The other fixtures are: Adelaide City v Azzurri; Beograd v Polonia; Salisbury v Modbury and USC Lion v Port Adelaide.

South Australian soccer in general and Adelaide City in particular was shocked by the tragic death of John DiPinto in Italy.

The City club manager and treasurer Mr DiPinto died last week as a result of injuries sustained in a road accident.

Mr DiPinto, 70, was in Italy to view the World Cup and accepted a lift from friends after the Italy versus Republic of Ireland match in Rome on July 3.

The car he was

travelling in was struck by a reversing truck and Mr DiPinto was admitted to a hospital intensive care ward in the city of Latina after suffering facial lacerations and severe whip-

While Mr DiPinto's wife was in Italy at the time of the accident, his children, Mrs Irene Toner and Adelaide City secretary Mr Joe DiPinto left for Italy after hearing of their father's death.

"It is a great shock to everybody — especially his family - I still can't believe it," Adelaide City president, Mr Charlie Caruso said.

"John was magnificent organiser, but as well as being a fellow club worker he was also a dear friend to all of us."

ERSTWHILE Hellas striker Billy Wright was back in town this week keen to gain a club here for next season.

The Kiwi left SA after a disappointing season with Hellas and re-turned to his Victorian State League club Morwell Falcons, via a brief stay in NZ.

But he was a specta-tor at flood-hit Hindmarsh on Wednesday for West End Premier Cup action.

And he made it clear to at least one club he would not mind moving back to SA at the end of the season.

Meanwhile, Jim Deilos has taken over as Hellas team manager.

Change of plans in SA

THE South Australian Soccer Federation last week paraded more rapid programme changes than legendary stripper Gypsy Rose Lee.

A Second Division cup semi-final doubleheader, scheduled for midweek at Hindmarsh Stadium was hastily replaced by two deferred Second Division league fixtures.

But the clubs did not appreciate the 24-hour notice given them by the Second Division management committee and baulked at being forced to alter their training routines.

So, instead of a double-header at headquarters, the lights stayed dim at Hindmarsh Stadium last Wednesday

The Federation also was stymied in its attempt to postpone the crucial final round of the Foundation SA State League First Division season.

The decision to postpone was made to ensure that the South Australian team would not be disadvantaged in its tournament in Vanuatu.

But the Australian Soccer Federation vetoed that plan, pointing out that the SASF was contracted to sup-ply results for the UK Pools and the Australian Soccer Pools.

Into immediate action sprang SASF general manager Mike Wells, who was forced to revamp his entire State squad just five days before its scheduled departure for the Pacific Islands.

snapped into overdrive as Mike Wells contacted clubs to seek co-operation in forming his new touring party.
The original SA

squad was planned as an under 23 unit with three "over-age" players to lend experience.

But those ideas were shelved and when the selection dust settled, Mike Wells was convinced he had a more than competitive squad.

"The new squad was based on the players who want to wear the State shirt, coming from clubs which want to support the code in Australia," Mr Wells said.

"In the end I was delighted with the response of the clubs in allowing their players to be released for the land United). Forced to drop out from the original squad were Martyn Crook (Para Hills), Peter Blazinovic, Juan Rodriguez, and Theo Anastasiou (Croatia) and Mark Brazzale and Steve Politis (Hellas).

The new South Australian squad now in Vanuatu for the 10th anniversary President's Cup tournament is: Alex Tobin (captain), Neville Flounders, Steve Maxwell, Carl Veart (Adelaide City); Brenton Hiern, Chris Tsolaridis, Lemmy Vat-silas (Adelaide Hellas); Graham Latham, Tony Gasparetto (Salisbury United); John Christopoulos, Kurt Leitner, Damien Harley (Polonia); Johnny Williams (Birkalla); Tony Radic (USC Lion), Kevin McCormack (Cumber-

Also unlucky were original stand-by players, Archie Christakos of USC Lion and Eddie Briscoe of Birkalia, who were not released by their respective clubs.

International youth tourneys represent sport and business

FROM AMERICAN BOB DIAZ A RESIDENT OF CANBERRA

AS an American who's watched soccer played on three continents, I thought it was time someone pointed out to supporters "Australianizing" soccer here that one of the best things that can be done is to recognize the contribution that Australian youth soccer can make towards that goal.

Specifically, some of the bigger clubs in Australia should host at least one - and preferably more - weeklong soccer tournaments for youths between 10 and 18 years

And these tournaments should be publicized at least nine months in advance in soccer publications of national circulation in the United States, Europe, and Asia.

Readers who might not know what's going on in youth soccer in the rest of the world need only to browse through the May 24th edition of Soccer America — the United States' counterpart to Australian Soccer Weekly.

That edition lists no fewer than 300 youth soccer tournaments worldwide from June through December.

True, the majority of these are in the United States.

But many of them are in Europe.

For example, the Italy Cup, Verona, Italy; the Vigo Classic, Vigo, Spain; the Dana Cup, Frederikshavn, Denmark; the London Youth Soccer Festival, London, England, the IFCB-International Friendship Cup, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; and the Holland Cup, Amsterdam, Holland.

The Dallas Cup. held every year around the end of March in Dallas, Texas, attracts teams from Italy, South America, Russia, England, and many other soccer loving nations.

I could name more tournaments but this sampling should give

Who comes to these tournaments?

Usually, a lot of national club teams and sometimes some of the national youth teams.

A club in Thailand sent a fantastic under-12 team to the Dallas Cup in 1988.

I'd like to see the AIS youth team compete in the Dallas Cup and some of the other international youth tournaments

International tournaments for kids can be fun as well as instructional.

Europe and South America.

International competition at the youth level will pay big dividends later when it comes to the Olympics and World Cup.

These tournaments are not free. Teams pay entry fees many months in advance of between $130-$400.

For this fee, each team is guaranteed a certain minimum number of games, usually three of five.

Although many tournaments are weekend affairs, the tournaments that attract international competition usually last from five to eight

Catering to youth soccer in the United States and elsewhere has become big busi-

The May 24th issue of "Soccer America" lists 26 travel agents that cater to youth soccer teams.

In addition, the tournaments themselves often provide strong financial benefits to the host community.

Teams often rent hotel rooms for the week-long tournaments.

Sometimes, course, especially at some of the shorter tournaments, team members stay as guests of host team players' families.

In any event, the players and their families are tourists, and they spend money on transportation, food, and local merchandise. Most tournaments also contract with local businesses to have concessionaires selling soccer equipment as well as the normal food items near the soccer pitches.

A percentage of these sales is returned to the tournament host team's coffers.

So, come on Australians — where's the Australia Cup? I'm sure a number of youth soccer teams in the United States would jump at the chance to visit Australia and play soccer from June to August - the school vacation period there.

Although one weeklong, well organized and run tournament would be enough to attract international competition, what's really needed is a series of week-long youth tournaments from Melbourne to Brisbane and perhaps

That way, a team could tour for a month, see a good bit of this wonderful land, and still play a lot of abroad. I can't believe all those enterprising people out there have overlooked the great potential that youth soccer possesses, not only as an economic force but also as a catalyst for the "Australianization" of soccer here. I, for one, hope I'm not the only one who sees that potential.

This can now come true for two lucky players courtesy of Sports Exchange Australia, a sponsor of the New South Wales Amateur Soccer Federation Ltd.

Craig Johnston and Tony Dorigo both had to make their own way over there.

The NSWASF is offering two scholarships to players presenting them with the same opportunities but in a different part of Europe at no cost to themselves.

The players will be flown to Denmark to train with their numI.F. in March 1991 for three weeks.

This will include accommodation, participation in the local competition with the youth team, training with the first squad and evaluation.

As an indication of the strength of the Brondby Club, six of their team play for Denmark and the club is regarded by many throughout Europe as having one of the best junior development programmes Europe.

Players in the 14-16 year old age group interested in being considered for one of these two scholarships will need to complete the following nomination form and have it forwarded to the office of the NSWASF by 4pm on Friday August 24.

AUSTRALIAN SOCCER WEEKLY — JULY 25, 1990

Ku-ring-gai

THE Commonwealth Bank Champion of Champions Competition 1990 will commence on Sunday, 2nd September.

This competition is one of the most popular tournaments on the amateur calendar as it represents a clash between the best teams in each age group in each Amateur Association.

Competitions run through from U9 to U18, U21 and All Age.

The team that represents each Association is usually the team that won the local competition in that age group in the Association and is therefore the local champion

This champion team then plays against other champion teams from other Associations in a knock out tournament, making each game a grand final for up to five rounds.

This culminates in the grand final in the 6th round on Sunday 28th October next to decide the overall Champion of Champions for each age group before crowds of up to 10,000 spectators if previous years attendances are anything to go

The format for 1990 will revert to that used in 1988 where teams will travel to other Branches' Associations depending on the draw and not playing off within their own Branch.

For 1990, round one will see Sydney teams travel to the country for their first match (depending on the draw).

In 1991, this will probably be reversed with country teams starting their first game against a Sydney team in Sydney.

The other change for 1990 is that there will be no Ladies' Champion of Champions competition. Instead, there will be a women's State Cup for U17 and All Age teams in order to allow more teams to enter.

This will run concurrently with the Champion of Champions tournaments with finals played on the same day at the same Nomination forms are being sent to all Associations and will close on 10th August, 1990.

Associations will not know, in most cases, which team will represent them in each age

All that is required is for associations to advise which age groups they wish to contest and which grounds will be available for use

Fair go for NSW

WRITES VINCE BALZAN*

I believe it is about time the Australian Soccer Federation started questioning what criteria AIS head coach Ron Smith uses to select the players for the Australian Institute of Sport.

People in NSW can no longer accept that Victoria can manage almost 50% representation, while NSW has only 10% to 50%.

It is reported that in the current intake Victoria already has four players with a further three to be added.

NSW had none up to just over a week ago, but after a meeting between Smith, NSW secretary Ian Holmes and NSW director David Lee, he decided to invite two players from NSW to join the AIS.

I understand this was done without consulting Lee on whether he considered the players suitable to attend the AIS or whether he wanted to recommend any other

I am not questioning Ron Smith's ability to carry out his coaching duties, what I am questioning is the manner he is perceived to be treating the people of

Some of the facts that should be taken into consideration when analysing the treatment NSW is receiving are:

· NSW has far and away the largest juniors soccer participation, which will mean NSW will be contributing a lot of money to the ASF under the new scheme.

Vince Balzan

• It has won more national championships at junior level than any other state.

 When Alan Vest was D.O.C., Ron Smith consulted him on the intake for the AIS.

• For the current intake. NSW have won the national championship at under 13, 14 and 16, yet can only manage two players to Victoria's seven. It was under 15 runner-up.

TAPIE BUYS ADIDAS

SOCCER-crazy millionaire Bernard Tapie, renowned in his native France for never saying no to a challenge, has scored the biggest coup of his career by clinching control of the world's leading sports label Adidas.

The flamboyant Tapie, owner of French soccer champion club Olympique Marseille based in a city he also represents in parliament said he was taking control of the West German firm.

In his usual confident style, he pledged the deal would be profitable this year, even though he was taking on a group roughly 15 times bigger than his own and might have to go into debt to rescue Adidas from a world sales slump.

Tapie told the French daily 'Liberation' he had spent months patiently wooing Adidas shareholders before they agreed to transfer 80 per cent of the share capital of Tapie's holding company, Bernard Tapie Finance SA.

Tapie fought off Japanese, West German and American contenders for control of the group, which has been owned by the Dassler family since it was founded in 1920.

Tapie himself, accustomed to paying enormous sums of money for successes, announced he had clinched the deal for an "amazingly low" price.

Through its Swissbased subsidiary ISL, Adidas controls the marketing of the World Cup, the Olympic Games and other major sporting events.

Tapie already hopes to wield his new-found influence to push for France to host the 1998 World Cup.

US denies World Cup

UNITED States soccer officials rejected reports that they might withdraw from the 1994 World Cup because of low ratings on American television for this year's tournament.

"We're confident we're going to put on the best World Cup ever," John Polis, pub-lic relations director for the US Soccer Federation declared in dismissing reports of a pullout as "garbage.

Scott LeTellier, president of the World Cup '94 Organising Committee, also scoffed at reports that the three major US television networks would not even bid for broadcast rights.

LeTellier said that top excecutives of CBS Sports and ABC Sports and the Turner Broadcasting System and ESPN cable networks attended the World Cup finals in Italy with US soccer officials and "all expressed an interest in the bid process for 1994.

He said that while in Italy they all heard the reports of a lack of US television interest, adding: "We found that rather amusing.

"The main reason for having the World Cup here is to expose spectators in the stadium to soccer," Polis said.

'The success of the World Cup has never, ever depended on US television. It's only a small part of the worldwide package."

FRANZ Beckenbauer has denied that he was set to become supremo of the United States 1994 World Cup prepara-bids for domestic US coverage would be held in the autumn and would probably be awarded to a combination of network and cable television.

"The issue is not whether the networks are interested in bidding. The question is at what price," he added.

The Turner cable station which showed matches from Italy re-ported disappointing ratings but the games broadcast live — were shown in late morning or early afternoon.

LeTellier said that fears that television feeds from the United States might be endangered if the major networks decided not to cover the World Cup were unfounded.

"We have reached an agreement in principle with the European Broadcasting Union to serve as the host broadcaster for 1994, meaning that the same union which the Europeans are used to relying on to produce television coverage for all major events they watch will also be responsible for that same task in the United States," he said.

LeTellier took issue with reports that Coca-Cola and Anheuser Busch were considering withdrawing their sup-port from US soccer, noting that their contract was with FIFA, not with the US soccer authorities.

Nearly 400 "fans" deported from Italy

An English fan is strip-searched before being deported from Italy.

ITALY deported 384 soccer fans for unruly behaviour and refused entry to another 52 as part of its security drive against hooligan violence at the World Cup, police chief Vincenzo Parisi announced.

Italy mounted the biggest security operation in the history of the World Cup, mainly to counter potential vioom Italy.

lence from notorious hooligans among England supporters.

Parisi said it cost $82 million and involved more than 50,000 police and support staff.

He told a news conference that 284 supporters had been detained during the month-long tournament and 129 of them were charged with various offences.

"Exemplary sentences" were given to 35 of those charged, he added. Parisi gave no precise nationality breakdown but almost all the clashes reported involved English, Italian or West German supporters. Parisi said 102 people had been injured, half of them police.

FIFA, the Italian government and the local organising committee of Italia '90 hailed the operation as a major success.

FIFA general secretary Sepp Blatter said hooligans had heeded a message that "it was not worth coming to Italy to try to cause trouble because Italian police were ready to intervene energetically".

He said FIFA, which gave its World Cup fair play award to England, planned to make a separate award at the end of the year to the best-behaved fans from its member national federations.

He said the Irish fans were the only ones at the 24-nation tournament that police felt needed no segregation in stadiums and that not one Brazilian had been detained.

Paul Gascoigne leaves his clowning behind

PAUL Gascoigne arrived in Italy as the clown-prince of English soccer.

But he returned home established as one of the most exciting new talents to emerge during the 1990 World Cup finals.

The midfield playmaker, who was not even an automatic choice when England flew to Sardinia for its opening Group F matches, proved with his performance in the semi-final against West Germany he had earned his place at the top.

Although he collected his second caution of the tournament and missed the third-place play-off against Italy in Bari, Gascoigne showed enough skill, energy, vision and maturity in his contest with West German captain Lothar Matthaus to warrant equal billing.

England coach Bobby Robson, often wary in the past of Gascoigne's lack of discipline on the pitch, was generous with his praise after seeing England beaten 4-3 on penalties after its 1-1 extra time draw with West Germany.

"Gascoigne has shown all through the tournament that he is one of the best players we have seen here," he said. "He has gained a lot of experience and he is still young. Only 23.

"He has worked hard and learned and responded to it all. If we had got through to the final and he had missed that, it would have been a tragedy for a very talented player."

Such words show the progress of Gascoigne vividly.

Only last year, Robson, in a fit of frustration with the player, described him as being as "daft as a brush" because he would not listen and learn or obey tactical instructions.

Often in trouble with officials and a practical joker, Gascoigne is popular with his team mates and renowned for his pranks.

For the new Gascoigne, however, such tricks, like his brushes with authority and the fights with team mates in his early days, are in the past.

As England recover, regroup and plan ahead, Gascoigne has emerged as the new inspiration and a star around whom England may build for the future.

"He has done exceptionally well," said former England goal-keeper Ray Clemence, who coaches at Gascoigne's club Tottenham.

Gascoigne's impressive showing for England in the World Cup boosted shares in Tottenham Hotspur on the London stock market.

Shares in Spurs, one of three exchangelisted British football clubs, were up more than seven per cent at 1.18 pounds against 1.08-

German merger set for 1991

FOOTBALL officials from the two German states have agreed to merge their leagues and form a joint national team next year.

The decision means that one German team will compete in qualifications for the European Championships in Sweden.

West and East Germany were drawn into the same group, along with Belgium, Wales and Luxembourg.

West Germany won the 1990 World Cup in Italy and one Germany will defend the title at the 1994 finals in the United States.

A united German team will also compete in the qualifications for the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona.

East German players will be eligible for the joint national team from 1991.

The East German Federation would withdraw its national team from competitions run by UEFA, but East German clubs will remain in this season's three European cup competitions.

The German soccer

union was moved forward by a year to reflect the quickening pace of political reunification that is expected to be completed by December.

Starting with the 1991/1982 season, the West German Bundesliga will be expanded to 20 clubs to include two East German teams. The Second Division of the Bundesliga will accept six East German clubs.

Joining the Bundesliga will be the top two East German clubs of the next championship.

To accommodate the East German clubs, the Second Division will be split into two groups with 12 teams each.

The exact promotion and relegation system will be decided later.

The decision to expand the Bundesliga is a surprise. Before state unity became topical, West German officials had been planning to reduce the competition to 16 clubs.

No World Cup joy for Gianluca Vialli

ITALIAN striker Gianluca Vialli, knocked from his pedestal at the World Cup, has accused coach Azeglio Vicini of treating him like a workhorse.

"I'm bitter because I've realised that I'm only useful when they need a mule," Vialli said after learning that he had been excluded again for the third-place playoff against England.

"I'm not anyone special any more," said Vialli, once Italy's most crucial striker and the team's top scorer.

"Now I understand that I'm no longer indispensable. I've realised that as a player I'm not considered important any more."

Vialli, who turned 26 last week, was expected to be Italy's star at the World Cup after playing a vital part two years ago when the side reached the semi-finals of the European championship.

But, despite helping Sampdoria to win the European Cup Winners' Cup in May with two goals in the final, he has long been off form when wearing the blue jersey of the national side and has not scored for Italy since April last year.

A missed penalty against the United States in the first round of the World Cup finals affected him psychologically and a thigh injury kept him out of Italy's next three matches.

When he came back against Argentina in the semi-finals he was put into an unfamiliar supporting role to Salvatore Schillaci, the team's new goal-scoring hero, and took much of the blame when Italy were held to a 1-1 draw after extra time.

The home side lost in the resulting penalty shoot-out with an exhausted and demoralised Vialli, stretched out on the ground, watching from the sideline.

"I was asked to sacrifice myself and I did," said Vialli, who has 41 caps and had scored 11 times for Italy before losing form.

"I accepted an unpleasant role because in Italy's game one of the two strikers has to sacrifice himself for his team mate. As a result I lost my morale and my place."

Vialli, the first to rush on and hug Schillaci when the Sicilian striker scored, accused the Italian press of whipping up stories of jealousy between the two men.

"I don't suffer from jealousy," Vialli said. "I have been wrongly portrayed, as a man and as a player, and now people have got a very bad impression of me."

Vialli, who is now planning a long holiday, won sympathy from Paolo Rossi, Italy's hero when he helped them to win the 1982 World Cup with six goals.

"He must feel like a film star who looks in the mirror and sees the first wrinkles," said Rossi who himself fell from grace after the 1982 triumph.

Leao may be Brazil coach

EMERSON Leao, coach of Sao Paulo club Portuguesa, is the most likely replacement for Sebastiao Lazaroni to take over Brazil's national squad, the "Jornal dos Sports" newspaper reports.

The newspaper quoted Roberio Vieira, spokesman for the Brazilian Football Confederation (CBF), as saying Leao was most likely to be named as the new coach.

The CBF will announce its decision on July 28, the paper said.

"It's true that there has not been a definite decision about Lazaroni's successor. But I would bet on Leao because he is the most cited among the CBF directors," said Vieira, who has been with the CBF for 18 years.

The Brazilian press had previously tipped former World Cup star Paulo Roberto Falcao and Carlos Alberto Parreira as the favourites to succeed Lazaroni who has been widely criticised for Brazil's poor showing in this World Cup.

ASIA's hopes of staging the first World Cup finals of the 21st century were boosted by FIFA president Joao Havelange.

Klaus Augenthaler, the unsung hero

AFTER years of untimely breakdowns, Klaus Augenthaler's body now works with the efficiency of a well-oiled machine.

A final overhaul in the run-up to the World Cup set the West German libero on the road to the most important game of his life in the World Cup final against Argentina.

Augenthaler spent much of the past few years on a physiotherapist's table, trying to shake off injuries that always seemed to hit him at the wrong time.

Just about every body part has been out of commission at some time or other as the Bayern Munich sweeper has made uncompromising demands on every joint and limb.

Augenthaler, at 32 the oldest man in Franz Beckenbauer's team, was unable to play the last stages of the 1986 World Cup finals because of injury.

Soon afterwards his career looked in jeopardy after an operation on a disc in his back.

"I learned perhaps more about life in those months of injury than ever before," Augenthaler said.

However, he made a remarkable comeback and produced some of the best form of his career during the past two seasons.

Inevitably, further injuries during the World Cup qualifying tournament and the build-up to the finals regularly threatened his ticket to Italy.

But Beckenbauer's faith in the injury-prone Augenthaler paid off in Italy, where he was a rock in the West German defence.

"We always knew he was a great player and the man for the job," said captain Lothar Matthaus.

"He has lived up to the faith that Beckenbauer put in him and produced the goods in the World Cup finals." Although he earned his first cap in 1983, Augenthaler's relationship with the West German national team has been one of love at second sight.

Despite his age, the World Cup final was only his 27th international.

But any lingering doubts have long been dispelled and the quietly-spoken libero was as steady as ever in what was certain to be his last World Cup finals campaign.

Perfect symetry and poetry in motion as Romania's Klein and his Argentine opponent chase the elusive ball in their drawn World Cup Group B match.
